Women's Voices from Suffragist to Dramatist

In partnership with:

Susan B.
Anthony
House

2017 marks the 100th anniversary of the women's suffrage movement in New York State. To celebrate the voices of women, and to commemorate those who strove and sacrificed for them to be heard, we have selected a summer season of plays written by women, expressing the diversity and creative power of the female dramatic voice. BVT will also pair with the Susan B. Anthony House in Rochester and the Women's Rights National Historical Park in Seneca Falls to present exciting commemorative events at all three of our locations. Together with our partners, we will work to package and promote these events as a Women's Suffrage Trail which will not only increase awareness within our Finger Lakes Region, but also attract visitors from other parts of New York State and beyond!
